

The Prophecy of the Wall: Germany, 1989

In 1989, Germany was enveloped in a spiritual atmosphere that felt impenetrable, making evangelism a formidable task. The religious stronghold seemed to prevent many from experiencing the profound and personal relationship with YHWH [God]. It was during this time that Shepherd Lambur was called upon to aid a couple, Jesse and Linda, who had returned to the United States feeling defeated after their missionary efforts in Germany. The weight of what they perceived as failure cast a shadow over their spirits, leading them to consider abandoning their ministry entirely.

A Divine Encounter

One day, in a rented Salvation Army church, Jesse and Linda sat in the front row under a cloud of discouragement. Shepherd Lambur and his wife, seated towards the back, were unaware of the couple's struggles. Yet, the Spirit of Adonai spoke to Shepherd, urging him to approach the front row with a message for someone. Unsure of what to say, Shepherd trusted the guidance of Yahshua, who promised to provide the words as he walked.

Upon reaching Jesse and Linda, Shepherd delivered the Lord's message. He inquired about their ministry, and their expressions of sadness revealed the depth of their despair. Shepherd then shared, "Jesse and Linda, I have a word for you from the Lord!" Their attention piqued, he continued: "The Lord says you will go back to Germany because something is happening there." They listened intently, filled with a mixture of wonder and hope. Shepherd assured them, "What you experienced there is going to change, and you will be caught up in your ministry; you will barely be able to keep up with what is going to happen!"

A Prophecy Fulfilled

Overwhelmed with joy and anticipation, Jesse and Linda contemplated the possibility of such a transformation. Could it truly be? With renewed faith, they returned to Germany, as Shepherd had urged.

In the fall of 1989, a monumental event unfolded—the Berlin Wall came down. This historic moment ushered in a flood of new opportunities for Jesse and Linda's ministry. They witnessed more salvations than they could have ever imagined, fulfilling the prophecy spoken by Shepherd. The couple returned home with pieces of the wall, a tangible reminder of Elohim's miraculous work—something they would never forget.
